As seen through the eyes of the nexperienced, the life of an actor so one continuous round of pleasure. An actor who tries to be something in his profession finds it a hard coad to ascend. It means constant work, endless hours of study. Some one has said that actors, like poets are born not made. Theatrical manigers will say this is a mistake. Fred Niblo, well and favorably known, appearing under the management of Klaw and Erlanger, is considered to possess all the essential qualities that go to make a successful and popular actor. In the first place, Mr. Niblo has a strong personality. Those who know him best are positive of his being the possessor of an unusual amount of magnetism, that essential element to make a man successful in the estimation of the public. Any person, no matter what may be his calling in life, if he is to depend upon the favor of the public to win success, will find that personal magnetism will advance his fortunes in an unmistakable manner. It is for reasons that Klaw and Erlanger selected Mr. Niblo to appear in the principal role of Sidney Rosenfeld's new comedy Monday night. It was also for the same ressons that Cohan and Harris induced Mr. Niblo to return from Australia, where he appeared in all the reasons that Cohan and Harris in-duced Mr. Niblo to return from Aus-tralia, where he appeared in all the later day successes of the American stage, to create the star role in George M. Cohan's "Hit the Trial Holliday." which proved one of the biggest successes of the American stage.

Repeated Successes.

Few players have been associated with so many notable successes as John Mason, who plays one of the principal roles in "On With the Dance," the new drams by Michael Morton, which A. H. Woods will present at the National Theater on Mondsy, October 22, for an engagement of one week.

There are few theater-goers who do not recall his work in "The Witching Hour," "As a Man Thinks, and other classics of the theater, during his career under the management of the late Charles Frohman. Mr. Mason joined forces with Mr. Woods about four or five years ago, and has played almost continually on Broadway since that time. One of Mr. Mason's first great successes under Mr. Woods' management was scored in "The Yellow Ticket," written by Michael Morton, author of "On With the Dance," in which Mr. Mason is now appearing. He had an important role in "The Song of Songs," which played for nearly a year at the Eltinge Theater, New York, three seasons ago. His greatest success was scored in "The Woods' production of "Common Clay" at the Republic Theater in 1915-16. Mr. Mason played for one entire year in the piece on Broadway, and followed with a successful season on the road, his first tour since he came under Mr. Wood's management.

Mr. Mason finds most of his recreation outdoors. He has abeautiful country seat at Bayport, Long Island, and his reputation as a host extends far and wide. He is an excellent swimmer, golder, and tenning player.
